

PHYSICAL TESTS FOR DRAFTED MEN TO TAKE 4 DAYS

Physical examination of every one of the 1,858 District men called by the draft will be completed a week from today. After these examinations have been completed and the men found physically fit have been certified to the appellate board as suitable for military service, it will be possible, District officials said today, to determine whether it will be necessary to call any additional men for examination to supply the District's quota of 500.

Chairmen of all the eleven local exemption divisions in Washington have informed Daniel J. Donovan, secretary to the District Commissioners, and official in charge of the local draft, that all the 1,858 called for examination in Washington have been summoned.

Will Begin Monday.
The physical examinations will begin Monday and will be closed Thursday. The local boards will then begin hearing claims of men with dependent families for exemption, and the District appeal board will hear claims of exemption made on behalf of Government clerks by members of the Cabinet.

Chief clerks of all departments are preparing lists of men in the Government employ considered indispensable. Official claims for exemption will not be filed, however, until after physical examination is completed, as it will not be necessary to ask exemp-

Sunday Tabernacle To Be Transformed Into Big Dance Hall

NEW YORK, June 27.—Oh, Billy Sunday, if you only knew!
The old devil you "kicked out of New York" is executing a big comeback, using some of your stuff.

The Billy Sunday tabernacle, at 168th street and Broadway is being turned into a palace where they'll dance the "ruthless fox trot" and the "hellish one-step."

The lumber is being hauled away to the grounds of the Bronx International Exposition for that use.

tion for any man turned down by medical examiners.
Provost Marshal General Crowder has written a letter to New Jersey draft authorities stating that there is no rule denying exemption to men who have married since registration day. The local board will take up such cases the same day as any other married exemption claims, basing action solely upon the question of dependency.

General Crowder also has sent notices to all exemption boards that they should address questions regarding exemption to the governors of their States, or to the District Commissioners in the Capital.

BRITISH PUBLISH RULES TO PROTECT WAR ZONE SHIPS

NEW YORK, July 27.—The British board of trade has issued a new and unabridged set of rules for the guidance of British ships in the danger zone, according to a London dispatch to the New York Sun. The rules require that all precautions should be taken in advance in view of an attack from a submarine or collision with a mine. The master of the ship is made primarily responsible for the enforcement of the rules, of which there are twenty-two dealing with berthing of passengers, lighting, warnings to engine room staff, lifeboats, and life-saving apparatus.

The one rule that is emphasized more than any other is that relating to the regulation of smoke. It is explained that smoke can be seen from many miles and is often the only indication given to a submarine of the presence of a vessel. The rules require particular care be taken of the furnaces and the stoking of the boilers so that they produce as little smoke as possible. The board of trade declares the fires should be laid lightly and kept clean and even.

Another rule requires that big wooden plugs should be provided before the ship leaves port to stop up shell holes in the vessel's side. The plugs are provided in most ports, being made of spruce about two feet long and tapering from eight inches at one end to two inches at the other.

Life-belts must be so placed on boats as to be accessible to the persons for whom they are available.

'SORRY I LEFT JAIL,' SAYS SUFFRAGIST WHO WAS PARDONED

NEW YORK, July 27.—Mrs. John Winters Braman asserted yesterday that she wished she was right back in the workhouse at Occoquan, Va., instead of being in her room at 125 East Fifty-seventh street, to which she had just returned.

"I think I would be doing suffrage much good in jail," she said. "You see, though President Wilson pardoned us we have not pardoned the President, and to have been left to serve out our sixty-day sentence would have brought women nearer the freedom we are fighting for. We know from the scores of letters and telegrams which awaited us when we left the workhouse, we know from the many telegrams of protest received at the White House, that the treatment given the sixteen pickets at Occoquan aroused intense indignation everywhere."

"I got letters of sympathy from anti-suffragists in the South who were outraged that we should have been placed in the dormitory with negro women. Understand, we did not object to the negro women. What we resented was the intentional insult in putting us with the negroes. There were empty beds in the negro dormitory, and the authorities manifestly gave negroes beds in our dormitory as the most offensive thing that can be done to white women in the South."
